Barrelmans Point is a landmark joint venture between Galliard Homes and Wavensmere Homes, set to transform the 60 acre former historic HMS Ganges Naval Facility where over 160,000 navy recruits passed through its gates until its closure in 1976.

Development Overview

With a masterplan by Franklin Ellis Architects, the overall development will comprise 296 newly built homes – with a mix of 2, 3, 4 & 5 bedroom properties, each with a private garden and off street designated parking. The scheme will also showcase the restoration of numerous Royal Navy heritage assets including the Grade II listed ceremonial mast, listed entrance gates, a mid-19th century fort and two Martello towers.

Perhaps most significantly, Barrelmans Point will offer the opportunity to reside in one of the most scenic coastal areas in the UK – Shotley Peninsula, which is located within the Suffolk Coast and Heaths Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty.
